

Never Say Never

Published: February 2008

I never thought I'd live my life with a needle in my arm.
I never meant to treat loved ones this way or cause any person harm.
I never could have seen myself being a junky at 17.
I sometimes wish that when I open my eyes all this would be a dream.
I never imagined that I would do what I have done just to get high.
I never wanted addiction to be a reason I could die.
I never planned on throwing my life completely down the drain.
I never took the time to think what I was getting myself in.
So never say never because you may be like me living a life I Never wanted to be.

Source: <https://www.familyfriendpoems.com/poem/never-say-i-will-never-be-an-addict-like-my-parents>